AUTOPSY REPORT

KOZLUK GRAVE SITE

CASE NO: KK3 553B

AUTOPSY DATE: 19.08.99

MORTUARY: Visoko

SUMMARY:

A complete body minus one or two ribs and a few small bones from the hands. There was dried leather skin still present over much of the remains, with partial skeletonization elsewhere.

As established from anthropology data, the person was male, aged between 31 and 71, and measured from 171 to 186 cm in height. There were no particular identifying features.

He died from a gunshot injury to the trunk which had passed through the spine, fragmenting one of the lumbar vertebrae and leaving metal fragments behind.

There were also fractures of the left side of his face, of several ribs on both sides of the chest and of the right shoulder blade, but these were all probably post mortem in nature, from crushing or moving the body after death. There was a further fracture of his left upper arm at the shoulder, which may or may not have occurred similarly.

There were no other significant findings.

CAUSE OF DEATH:

It is my determination that the cause of death in case number KK3 553B was:
